

Mannesmann VDO AG

Kruppstraße 105
60388 Frankfurt
4675 1

Abstract

Overvoltage protection device

The invention relates to an overvoltage protection device for an electronic apparatus having a plug-in device which has at least one plug-in element and is designed for insertion into a housing of the electronic apparatus. In overvoltage protection in which there is no need for any additional shielding measures from the electronics, a protection board which has a spark gap in order to dissipate overvoltages is arranged on the plug-in element.

(Figure 1)